Agenda: Curriculum revision/restructuring for B.Sc. Geology and M.Sc. Geology for Session: 2016-2017

The experts discussed about the syllabi of UG and PG courses in Geology. During the discussion, the committee members suggested following changes in the curriculum of M.Sc. Geology programme:

1. Geomorphology, being an important branch of Geology, must have status of separate course, instead of being combined with Remote Sensing.
2. The PG students must study Mineralogy and Crystallography thoroughly, as it is core branch of Geology. Instrumentation and analytical techniques part should be taught along with Geochemistry, because Geochemistry deals with the chemical analysis of various components of the Earth.
3. There should be separate courses of Igneous Petrology and Metamorphic Petrology.
4. Economic Geology should be taught as a course with an emphasis on genesis and distribution of ore deposits.
5. A new course on Mineral Resource Development and Mining Geology should be introduced in M.Sc. IV semester Geology.
6. The students should carry out project work and submit dissertation. This project work will have weightage equal to one theory paper.

After the discussion and incorporation of suggestions by experts the syllabi with new structure and modified content were approved by the Board of Studies.

- (b) Section A of the papers in which texts are prescribed for non-detailed studies like Fiction, History of English Literature, Critical Theory, Colonial and Post Colonial Studies and Linguistics, will contain very short answer questions.

Student representatives Ku. Pooja Thakur (Alumni) and Ku. Gitanjali Netam (Sem III) suggested that in Semester II Paper III Prose II Unit II the selected portions of the essay “Hero as Poet” written by Thomas Carlyle be prescribed for non detailed study. The reason extended by them was that the essay proves to be too voluminous to be completed in one semester.

Subject expert Dr. Shukla Banerjee suggested that in Sem II Paper V – Modernist Literature Unit IV, the translated works of other authors like Rabindranath Tagore be introduced in lieu of “Sunderkand” of Tulsidas. She was of the view that mythological works should be read in their original form. This suggestion was supported by subject expert Dr. Savitri Tripathi.

The suggestions were noted down for future consideration.
